

Taken together these two notions provide an immediate lifting of the syntactic notion of bisimulation to a corresponding semantic notion, which we write, \approx .